If you set the content of the files/directories in your DB_URI file to a bunch of spaces, it will read the file but cause the script to have missing in your DB_URI file. A: It worked for me, although I have never used PHP. I was using this tutorial. It shows how to install and configure Git with TortoiseGit on Windows. You need to make a couple of changes to the installation steps: Open up the php.ini file, Make the file_uploads directive 0. Save the changes. Close php.ini. Restart the Apache server. I had this problem with the same error message. I also installed git from the git site. My php file upload worked just fine. [Ultrastructural changes in the liver of the offspring of rabbits exposed to the action of inorganic mercury and the effect of dl-alpha-tocopherol in postnatal ontogenesis]. The course of experimental reproduction of changes of the hepatocytes of the offspring of rabbits treated with mercury chloride during pregnancy was studied by electron microscopy. It has been established that prenatal subchronic administration of mercury chloride leads to an intensive hepatotoxic effect manifested by a progressive decrease in the hepatocyte index, depletion of glycogen from the cells, morphological changes in their organelles (mitochondrial swelling, accumulation of lipid-like inclusions in the matrix, an increase in the number of lipofuscin granules), by means of an increase in the number of autophagic vacuoles, and a qualitative protein synthesis disorder. All these changes were more pronounced in young rabbits that were smaller and had a higher level of oxidative stress. The increased synthesis of lipofuscin pigment and the increased activity of lipofuscin-biosynthetic enzymes observed in young rabbits can serve as an adaptation mechanism against stress that enhances the ability of the organism to protect itself from xenobiotic agents. Subchronic administration of dl-alpha-tocopherol to pregnant rabbits did not prevent the deleterious effects of mercury on the ontogenesis of the liver.Q: Why does inverse middleware only work for the first response in Flask?
